What is digital signage?

Digital signage is the use of AdScreens to broadcast advertising or multimedia content in an attention grabbing way that traditional posters and noticeboards never could. This technology is growing because no other media makes it possible to deliver dynamic content in the right location at the right times for maximum impact.

Why use dynamic AdScreens?

Digital signage is the best choice for reaching and enticing large audiences. It's better than traditional printed posters and bulletin boards because:

- Digital signage is a unique and creative way to attract attention, only limited by what you can imagine and create
- The ability to update content instantly or schedule advertising through the day
- A digital display that uses a combination of high quality images and videos can have a powerful influence on buying decisions
- It is the perfect mechanism to project the right image to visitors, clients and employees inVoke Marketing is a Norwich based marketing agency. We are a group of creative and dedicated designers, who know how important good communication is.
